

Which crayon do you think gets used the most from a crayon box? Why?

According to pink crayon, Duncan hasn't used it in over a year. Why is that? Do you think that some colors are considered "girl" colors and others are "boy" colors? Why?

Each crayon has a very strong opinion in the story. What is an opinion? Why is it important to have an opinion on things?

If your toys could talk to you, which ones would say they are used the most or not enough?

What is your favorite color? Why?

The crayons have very strong feelings in the story. Why is it important to listen to someone else's feelings?