

There are lots of interesting words in Xander's Panda Party. What new word did you learn from the story? Let's try to see how many times we can use the word during our dinner conversation.

Xander does a lot of thinking to help solve his problems. Where do you do your best thinking?

Not long ago, pandas were dangerously close to extinction. What does extinction mean? Can you name some animals that are extinct?

Some of the animals feel excluded from Xander's party. Talk about a time when you have felt left out from being a part of something.

If you were going to throw a party, what kind of party would you design?

What were some things that Xander learned about animal classification in the story?
